Gasoline prices of at least two companies will rise two-tenths of a cent Monday in Victoria.

Both Imperial Oil Ltd. and British - American Oil Company announced from their head offices that prices of all grades of gasoline are increased by .2 cent, and diesel fuel by .1 cent.

It was only 10 days ago that the price of Imperial's standard grade gasoline was cut by half a cent with the customer getting a price cut of .6 cent.

Spokesmen for the firms said the increase is uniform across Canada, and is based upon the 1 per cent increase in sales tax (old age security portion) which was announced in the federal budget Thurs day night.

Dealers for the two companies have not yet heard from their regional offices, but expect they will be informed early Monday morn-

On the Fence

MR. DEANE FINLAYSON MAY not win the next provincial election but he has already earned some kind of prize for a remarkable feat of politics.

The Canadian According to Press, he said at Kelowna the other day that Bill 43 should be removed from politics altogether. A repre-sentative group of all facets of society, he explained, should have been called together to build sound labor legislation. In the manly art of fence straddling, Mr. Finlayson the heavyweight champion. What does he mean when he says that a vital issue like labor legislation should be taken out of politics? Only that government should not govern, that legislatures should not legislate without agreement between all sides, that society should avoid decisions if they are painful. We should never act on important questions until everyone consents.

Mr. Finlayson has a strange conception of the democratic process and the parliamentary system. By system a government must take the responsibility for initiating policies and the opposition must take responsibility for opposing them and offering alternatives if it sees fit to do so.

But Mr. Finlayson, so far as his Kelowna speech indicates, is determined to avoid any responsibility whatever. He does not say whether he favors Bill 43, he offers no alternative and he ends in a straddle. The straddle is designed, of course, to attract votes from the labor unions without repelling the votes of those (including many abor union members) who regard Bill 43 as wise legislation.

Mr. Finlayson's straddle is not likely to work, however, because he rates the intelligence of the publie too low. The public knows a fence-sitter when it sees him. It will hardly put the government into the hands of a leader who can't make up his mind about a question as clear and simple as Bill 43, who stands on both sides of the fence and hopes that if he ignores it a painful issue may go away. It won't go away. Such an issue must be settled, for better or worse, in the apparatus of compromise that we call politics. This is what politics is for. If politics cannot settle that kind of issue it has no purpose. if Mr. Finlayson is not prepared to deal with public business in politics, as the leader of a politiparty, he should have chosen an easier profession.

If there is no place for legislation in politics there is no place for Mr. Finlayson either. His place, already chosen, is the fence not the government. And where, by the way, does Mr. Laing stand?

After Adenauer, What?

THE MAN WHO EMERGED from the wreckage of post-war West Germany to lead his portion of a defeated nation back to power and prosperity has taken the first step towards retirement from active politics. Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has allowed his nomination for the West German presidency to stand.

Since his election would be a foregone conclusion, next July will in all probability see the 83-year-old leader's departure from the scene. The presidency would be for Dr. Adenauer an honor rather than a job, although he stresses the importance of the position. But it would be a fitting tribute to this former mayor of Cologne who refused to co-operate with the Nazis and was jailed for it.

a retirement from the political fray could have incalculable results, not only on West Germany's future but on the European and world situations. The European defence of the West has been built around West Germany, and West German policy has meant Adenauer

Above all, the aging Chancellor has held a rigid policy line in West-ern dealings with Russia on the question of reunification and the status of Berlin. At a time when Britain, France and the United States are considering a more flexible approach to these problems at the forthcoming conferences with Soviet Union, Dr. Adenauer's stand-fast attitude was beginning to raise difficulties. His departure, however, is certain to raise many more. There will be great complications, and probably considerable danger to the West, in the vacuum which his absence will create.

Pension Problem

I read in the Daily Times that the Old Age Pension Fund is $184 million in the red, and I am not at all surprised that that is the case.

I really believe it was meant only for those who passed the means test Instead, many receive the old age pen-sion who are over 70 years of age and yet are really well off. Where two pensioners live together and both receive the pension they can live quite comfortably, but where only one pensioner lives in rooms that is not the case. The individual can hardly exist on the pension received.

LOOSE ENDS

Mr. Snifkin Worships at an Ancient Shrine

OUR wives being out on the town together and attending a symphony which is not in our line), Mr. Horace Snifkin came to dine with me alone in the kitchen the other night and brought with him an arresting editorial in The Manchester Guardian. The editorial argued, with all the solemnity of Manchester, that dish washing was a noble art, a fine thing for men, a sure release from nervous tensions, a high privilege and blessed interlude of peace after a

Mr. Snifkin read the editorial aloud twice for my edification as I began to gather the dishes together. Since these important ideas obviously required thought, he lighted his pipe, sat back in his chair and watched me laboring at the sink.

THE Guardian, he said, was unquestionably right and dish washing was a high privilege, to be enjoyed at leisure, with quiet contemplation. The sink, he suggested (contemplating the ceiling with fixed attention) was indeed a symbol of the entire life process. For every man made a mess of his life most of the time but at night, after the day's mistakes and crimes, he had the chance to cleanse his conscience as he cleansed the dishes. Thus to Mr. Snifkin dishwashing was almost a religious rite, the sink a kind of altar. (I turned on the hot water and sprinkled the soap flakes while Mr. Snifkin studied the ceiling, his face illuminated by a truly religious

THERE were really only two kinds of men in the world, Mr. Snifkin-went on those who washed dishes and those who didn't. You could trust the washers but you must always beware of the non-washers.

The former were close to the ulti-mate substance of things; the latter divorced from reality and puffed up with pride. The sink, when you came right down to it, was the shrine of democracy where all men were free and equal. (Mr. Snifkin gazed out the at the sunset with a look of complete freedom while I plied the dish

He said he did not wish to be hard on the non-washers, some of whom might be honest men after all. They might not cheat you in a business deal they might escape jail somehow and might be elected to legislative bodies. But in great affairs you could not rely on them because they didn't know life the round; that was to say in the round dishpan where reality came to private focus after the day's public

THE statesman who had never washed dishes. Mr. Snifkin affirmed, might have the best sort of intellectual equipment but he was unfit to govern mankind since he didn't know how the other and larger half of it lived. No woman should vote, for him since he had no real sympathy with her sex, or otherwise he would take her place at the sink every night.

Studying the lives of great men, presidents and prime ministers, Mr. Snifkin noted that for all their success most of them lacked something, as the historians agreed. In nearly all cases, however, the historians had missed the obvious point, namely, that the great men lacked a dish mop. They could never quite touch the substance of democracy because they never touched a hot, wet dish. They were ignorant of humanity because they were ignorant of garbage. They could never come quite clean with the elec-tors because they had never come quite clean with the sink,

MR. SNIFKIN refilled his pipe and added that he was not one to despair of the democratic system. On the contrary, he felt it was growing stronger all the time as more and more men washed dishes.

In his youth, he recalled, most reasonably prosperous households had maids who washed the dishes but democracy (greatly aided by the income tax) had been so broadened in recent times that rich men, tycoons, judges and holders of the highest public offices could be seen every night, if you cared to look through the kitchen window, immersed in the dishpan and deep constructive thought.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

THAT humble microcosm of our changing society, said Mr. Snifkin, that moving picture of human equality, always restored his faith in the democratic system.

The sink, he thought, might well be our secret weapon against communism; just as the introduction of the mechanical dishwasher, with its spiritual con-sequences, might well be more dangerous to us than Russian missiles. For the great fault of the West in the struggle of the world was nothing but arrogance and arrogance was instantly dissolved in the dish pan. Fill a man with soapsuds, Mr. Snifkin advised, and he will never be inflated with pride.

Having made sure that the last dish was washed, dried and put away in the cupboard, Mr. Snifkin, that great-hearted democrat, offered his assist-ance at the sink and was surprised to find that I had finished the job. Ob-viously, he said, I washed too fast, missed all the pleasure of contemplation and ignored the whole meaning of the nightly sacrament. And he tore up The Manchester Guardian's editorial and put it in the garbage can before his wife could see it.

A Scene Seldom Divulged to the Lowly Footsloggers

IN a strict sense this piece today is not properly about the days when we were very young. It is, instead, about a vast number of young men-many not more than slightly in Canada's history. It is about the men who stormed up what had been believed to be the impregnable slopes of Vimy Ridge to wrest from the German defenders their position of vantage and hold it for all time to the glory of Canadian arms. More particularly it is about the men who survived the carnage of that assault through an .pril sleet storm that turned the soil to clinging mud, and who finally stood in amazement at the scene below them. It was a scene seldom divulged to the lowly gers" who had won all their objectives exactly as the higher command had hoped they might.

I was not with them because it had been my luck-good or bad-to have stopped a German machine-gun bullet with my head just as my battalion, the 2nd Canadian Mounted Rifles, attained its objective. This was a terrific German trench called Swischen Stellung, beautifully designed and revetted give its defenders every opportunity to hold it against the contemptible little Canadians

So I am thinking of those men who passed through the great trench and La Folie Farm—our second objective— to swarm to the top of the ridge of Vimy and look down over the yast and rich plain of Doual

Below them it must have seemed that the whole German army was in retreat. Men, wagons, guns, ambulances and all the weird panoply of war were streaming out of the Vimy area, choking every road toward the seemingly placid town of Douai, clearly visible at a half-right position.

In command of the outpost group which topped the ridge were Capt. J. L. Gray and Lieut. Pat Heinekey. for a while it seemed that the weary day which began long before a stormy dawn must be ended, that a great objective had been attained. To the left lay Lens and its busy industrial environs which were to be devil us for another 18 months. Below Vimy village, Petit Vimy and Avion of which we were to learn so much at great cost in precious lives. The soldiers must have wondered why they were ordered to dig in and consolidate their positions on the top of a ridge of which the enemy knew every yard, every strong point, every weakness, They must, indeed have wondered why the highest military authority was so obsessed with its plan of "limited objectives". . . they must have itched to stream after the fleeing enemy.

Victoria was well represented the group of weary soldiers who looked down on the Douai plain. There would have been Harry Rogers, one of the battalion's finest scouts and a great Sprinkling.

And, of course, there was Lt. Col. George Chalmers Johnston (our beloved "Whizz-Bang") and Lt. Dick Spinks, scouts officer, who came up to see what was happening.

I think Capt. Lawrence Miller (now Brigadier Miller and living quietly beneath the gentle slope of Mount Tolmie) and the then Cpl. Jock MacGregor (later to win the VC, MC and DCM) were among that splendid group.

But there were so many, many more, and even to this day, so long afterward, when so large a number have been stricken from the nominal roll ". . . at the going down of the sun, we will remember them."

Skiing has an ancient and respecleast as far as the sixth century of our era we may assume from the learned historian Procopius, who me entions some "Skridfinnar" or gliding Finns in his "De Bello Gothico," written some 50 years before St. Augustine landed in Procopius gives no details of equip-ment or technique, and we have to wait for the Danish historian Saxo Grammaticus, a contemporary of England's naughty King John, to give us some details of these ingenious Scandinavians.

"This people." says Saxo, "is used to

For when they first leave the deep valleys they glide, twisting and circling among the bases of the rocks, thus making the route very roundabout by dint of continually swerving aside, until, passing along the winding curves of the tracks, they conquer the appointed summit."

For centuries the Scandinavians used skis for hunting and travelling in win-ter, while our native Indians evolved the snowshoe for similar purposes. The snowshoe is clearly superior in flat or estry. That it dates back at ground becomes steeper and the trees turn and the christiania turn are named for districts in Norway, but downhill ski-racing and the competitive slalom are both, oddly enough, British contributions to the sport.

By TONY EMERY

Skiing was no new invention in some parts of Austria around the year 1700, we learn from a German traveller of that time. He describes the skis used by the peasants of Krain (Carniola) and their method of downhill running, leaning sturdily back on a trailing pole - "gar fest, ja mit ganzer Gewalt." His description of their serpentine curves is graphic but unhelpful as to technique.

It is a far cry from the sliding Finns and the peasants of Krain to the Olympic cracks of today. Not only has tech-nique evolved and equipment changed, but even clothing is vastly different, as you may gather from this quotation from an old book in my possession (E. C. Richardson's "The Skirunner,"

THE impending sitting of the Court of Appeal which opens next week has produced the usual state of preoccupation among now busily SILENUS shovelling it out of the way so that the Judges can get into the building on Tuesday.

What with this routine state of affairs and the sudden arrival of our climate, it has been quite impossible to get any sense out of anyone. The old place is filled with out of anyone. The old place is filled with shoals of basking clerks leaning on their shovels and staring out of the wine the dazzling light in the street. Even the rthouse Seaguli has taken off for Beacon Hill Park. Spring has struck.

The world outside the showing signs of spring too. Gentle readers must have noticed the increase in the number of bow ties to be seen in the street. The return of respectable manhood to his jaunty neckwear is the surest sign of spring there

Now the bow tie is an article of attire which always seems to evoke mild derision amongst those who do not wear it. It is vaguely non-conformist: it conveys a subtle air of liberalism and surrounds the wearer with an indefinable impression of trust-knowledgeable fellow, a man of the world: you can trust him with your money or your wife and have never a worry. All of this leads to jealousy amongst the untrustworthy radicals who do not wear bow ties because they lack the manual dexterity which the article demands.

This column, of course, is not talking about the wretched imposters who try to make the best of both worlds by bedizening themselves with the shameful ready - made contraption. These miserable counterfeiters can always be spotted. They lack the comfortable look of competent confidence (or confident competence, it doesn't matter), the nimbus of assured avuncular benevolence which surrounds the genuine do-it-yourselfer. They look uncomfortable, apologetic ...

downright shifty at times. And as for their "ties!" You can spot 'em a mile off. No amount of mangling and rumpling can get rid of their stiff and phony appearance.

The natural superiority of bow tie wearers (and wearers of dark blue bow ties with smallish white spot in particular) has at last been scientifically proven by no less an in-vestigator than the Harvard Business School. The other day a number of us were sitting around in the sun preening our bow ties and beaming approvingly at each other. The conversation, as I recall, was as to the respective merits of silk and poplin, when suddenly our good friend Comox Halibut came out with this piece of information. The Harvard Business School, situated in the heart of the bow tie belt of Massachusetts, ad decided to conduct an investigation into the phychological effects of bow Among other things (said Comox), it found that the bow tie wearing salesmen operating east of the Alleghenies clinch (in an average year) 7% more deals than The Rest.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN Bringing Opera Up-to-Date

know what does

LONDON-Not expected to achieve the desired result—the petition to Parliament to extend the copyright of the Gilbert and Sullivan operas indefinitely.

The copyright, owned by the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company, is due to expire at the end of 1961. The at the end of 1961. The no fewer than half a million G & S lovers who signed the petition fear that from that time on "part of our cultural heritage" would be badly mauled about when the comic operas became available for anyone to pro-Keyburp duce them however they liked.

The copyright laws of Britain hold good for 50 years after the death of the writer or composer concerned. The musical part of the G & S operas (Sullivan's contribution) went out of copyright nine years ago. Any-one who chooses can perform any sort of version of the musical scores, as was done The Swing Mikado in Chicago a few years back. As from Jan. 1, 1962, G & S addicts tremble to think what might happen to the lyrics (Gilbert's part).

Already plans are under way, here and in the States, for new, modern versions of the operas. The Sadler's Wells Opera Com-pany is dying to get its hands on them. Sir Malcolm Sargent has been approached from several quarters with a view to freshening them up.

This famous British conductor-composer refused to sign the petition, saying: "I have long dreamed of certain of the operas being done on a bigger scale and if the opportunity comes my way I shall be happy." in Trial By Jury and Bing Crosby and Bob Hope in The Road to Venice (otherwise known as The Gondoliers).

Two main things are against the hopes of the petitioners.

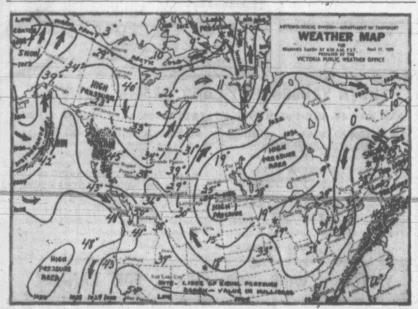

First, most of Britain's cultural heritage has managed to stand up admirably to the strain of not being protected by copyright. To name but one writer for the stage-Shakespeare. His plays have been subjected to every sort of rough handling, from broad burlesque to streamlined versions in modern But has it done anything to lessen the stature of Shakespeare's work?

And secondly—the chief stumbling block. If copyright in perpetuity were granted to the Gilbert and Sullivan operas by special Act of Parliament it would proce a chaotic situation as regards copyright in general.

As things stand now the granting of copyright to a person for his life time and to his assignees for 50 years after his death is regarded as giving him a pretty fair run for his money. (Oscar Wilde's estate raised no fuss when his plays went out of copy-right in 1950.) Why should the G & S operas be made an exception? And if so, let's have a mad scramble for perpetual copyright for all sorts of other plays, books and musical compositions.

The answer to the petitioners seems an Anyway, the operas themselves should prove hardy enough without benefit of special legislation, for it's an interesting fact that despite TV's effect on other entertainment, a G & S season at any suburban or provincial theatre always produces sell-out

Gutter Repair Rates High On List of Spring Chores

omes along should see you out of doors, beginning the annual inventory of what inroads winter's ravages have made on your home and property.

Some types of damage can be ignored safely until late spring; other items should receive your immediate attention. Don't forget that the heavy rains and strong winds which will be in the vernal. weather picture can finish some of the works of ill-will winter initiated.

Here are some conditions you should check for: exterior paint that has blistered or peeled, loosened downspouts, rusted gutters, cracks in driveways, loose shingles, leaning fences. These are only a few of many items, but they're sufficient to head your list of post-winter repairs which may Painting is better left until there are long stretches of warm weather. But it isn't too soon for some of the preparatory work that precedes painting. Using a wire brush and a scraper, you can start cleaning off some of that loose (Leave the blowtorch tomed to scrambling around in high places better leave roof repairs to the expert.

But one job that you ought to complete as soon as possible is the repair of winter-damaged gutters and downspouts. The excessive weight of snow and ice often pulls gutters away from the house and loosens downspout straps. Cracks may have developed due to alternate freezing and RE-NAIL thawing. Rust may have opened holes in the gutters.

THREATENS WALLS

If you don't repair damaged gutters before the heavy spring rains, cracks will beenlarged and rain flowing off the roof may seep between inner and outer walls, causing interior damage. A sagging gutter can be cor by gently pressing it back into position, adding new hangers to support it. Old hangers that have become sened should be tightened PATCH IT by renailing.

SEAL NAIL HEADS When adding a new hanger or repairing an old one, re-member to use large headed, coated nails. Spread asphalt cement or calking compound over the nail heads to seal oles with asphalt or caulking. Hangers should be nailed to the roof below the shingles. Remember to lift the shingle along the roof edge carefully

If the gutter overflows, check first to see that there is no debris, such as last fall's leaves, at point of overflow. Barring a stoppage, best bet is that the pitch of the gutter is wrong. Pour some water into the gutter and watch which way it flows. If it doesn't run toward the downspout, you have a sagging gutter on your hands. Tighten all hangers and add new ones at point of sagging, if neces-

If the downspout is pulling away from the wall, remove the nails from the straps which hold it in place, and rethe nail with larger nails. Be sure to seal the nail holes with asphalt or other sealer.

If you find a rusted-out spot in your gutter, repair it at ation. once. Clean away as much of the rust as you can with a stiff wire brush. Then paint the area with a rust-resistant paint. When dry, coat the area with asphalt cement,

If the opening is a very small one, such as a fine crack, this may be adequate. If, however, the hole is larger, these being a revers patch it with a piece of roofover the nail heads to seal phalt-covered area. Cover er and prettier than ever in them. then paint it once it's set. Large, ripped or rusted-out sections of downspout may call for replacement. Remove straps with which downspout is fastened to the wall, lift out the damaged section of spout and replace with a new section. (Your hardware or tinsmith stocks these sections.)

Replace straps, following nailing procedures for gutters.

Materials that you'll need for your gutter repairing are: asphalt cement, an old paint brush, scissors, hammer, tin-snips, patching material (burlap, felt roofing, metal), hang-ers, straps and nails.

And a few rainless days will be a big help, too.

Most of us do not realize that daffodil flowers are already formed within the bulbs when we purchase them.

In September, a daffodil bulb which is cut in half from Liquid fertilizers should be tip to base will show the flowers for the following season as a yellowish tightly packed sure they are complete and not centrepiece. With care and patience the centrepiece can be unfolded to reveal the flowers in miniature form.

This answers the frequently asked question as to why new daffodil bulbs, produce excel-lest flowers the first season but poor blooms in succeeding years.

The first season's flowers vere put into the bulbs under the ideal conditions of the bulb grower's fields, but in the garden they were not given conditions suitable for making top grade flowers in the years which followed,

Most gardeners forget their daffodils as soon as the blooms are over, yet it is in the period between flowering next year. age that next year's flowers are formed,

During this period the plants need more attention than at any other time of year, starting with the removal of the flowers before too much energy is taken from the bulbs for seed form-

Q. Should a grape vine gro ing outdoors receive any fertilizer now, and if so, what kind?

J.R.S., View Royal.

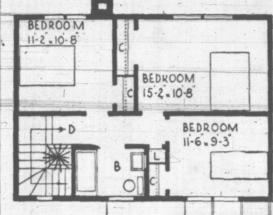

A. A balanced fertilizer with an analysis on the 6-8-6, or something else as well balanced, should be applied now as growth recommences. See that the vine receives sufficient and a dressing of nitrate of soda at flowering time.

Q. Are there any azaleas which may be grown outdoors here? Mrs. R.C.M., Victoria. A. Azaleas are a feature of Victoria gardens from late April through May, and the foliage becomes more attrac-tive all year until it ends in a riot of fall color. There are local azalea and rhododendron growers who have a wonderful range of varieties for planting now, to flower this spring and

CAPETOWN (Reuters)-A soccer game between a Brazilian team including Negroes and a South African side was cancelled today after complaints of racial discrimination. Cancellation of the game, a few hours before it was due to be played, followed cabled instructions from President Juscelino Kubitschek of Brazil. The four Negro members of the team, which is en route to Portuguese East Africa, did not land at Capetown when the other members disembarked from their ocean liner.

The Negroes were told they could not play against white South African teams.

Lazy athletes and the ones who cheat themselves in training routines usually become the toughest taskmasters if they eventually turn their talents to coaching.

They can remember times when disregard for training rules let their teams down in crucial situations and they know a flock of ways to avoid hard work and still keep in the coach's good books.

Accordingly, when they pick up the whip, they know where to use it. They are suspicious of all their charges and prone to insist on strict adherence to conditioning schedules. Jealous of indifferent attitudes that can wreck their coaching labors, they are quick to recognize player symptoms that indicate laziness.

Coaching can be a tougher job for the dedicated athlete. The man who never needed any prodding to stay in top condition and never stopped trying to improve during his playing days finds it difficult to believe that some players won't work on their own to stay in shape.

He is inclined to spend most of his coaching time on instruction in fundamentals and tactics, taking for granted that his charges will be physically ready for an all-out effort. Often it takes a while to discover that while most athletes agree strenous training is a necesary part of success, about half need an occasional touch of the training whip for a

Third Trip Through Coaching Mill

Willie Hamilton has certainly been dedicated to soccer. 37 he was still a capable performer in the Victoria and District Football League this winter. Staying in condition has never been a problem for Willie and there was a suspicion that as coach of Victoria's entry in the Pacific Coast Soccer League, he might be sparing the whip in

But Willie says it isn't so in a thick Scottish burr that leaves no doubt of his birthplace. He admits to other problems but expects his Evcoes to be in sharp physical condition when they open the new PCSL season against Halecos at Macdonald Park next Saturday.

For one thing, Hamilton has had a couple of earlier trips through the coaching mill and he has sweated under some of the best trainers in the booting business. He had session as player-manager with Hamilton Academicals the Scottish League's second division and he piloted Victoria United through a Pacific Coact League campaign few years back. Right now, he's confident Evcoes be able to run with any club in the circuit.

His main worry is that some players, moving out of the local loop, will take a while to adjust to the sharper tactics of the coast circuit. "We should do pretty well," says Willie, "The players are eager, but we're starting from scratch and some of our players will have to adjust them-selves to a faster pace.

"Vancouver clubs are usually faster on the ball and more alert. Our boys will have to learn to get to the ball more quickly, get if under control and move it away faster than they do now. We should have had a couple of matches with Vancouver teams before the season started. Now it may take two or three games to become accustomed to

"But don't be surprised if we give them a lot of trouble right from the start," he says.

Moved in With Soccer Pros at 15

It would be difficult to find a man with a better soccer background than the mild-mannered Evcoes' coach.

Hamilton became a part of professional soccer at the tender age of 15. However, English League regulations prohibit the signing of players under 17 and he spent two years practicing with Preston North End and working around the club grounds before stepping into the left half-back spot with the First Division club.

spent 11 seasons halfbacking for North End, twice aying in the semifinal of the English Football Association Cup series, before transferring to Queen of the South for a five-year stint with the Scottish First Division squad.

His player-manager season with Hamilton Academicals came next, followed by a season with Greenoch Morton and a term with Airdrie before he pulled up stakes and headed Victoria in October, 1955.

Hamilton has the knowledge and Evcoes have the energy and eagerness. It could eventually prove to be a happy combination. But don't forget to keep that whip handy, Willie,

The field narrowed down today, but the race for aggregate honors remained toss-up with four rinks still sporting unblemished records in the seventh annual Victoria Curling Club bon-

As rinks headed into today's rounds, defending Grand Challenge and aggregate champion Bill Karjala of Nanaimo loomed as the man to beat once again, but he had to make room under the spotlight for a veteran Victoria curling crew.

The veteran rink is "owned" by popular Clare Anderson and skipped by Dick Thompson. Their steady and canny shotmaking is providing the big surprise of the 'spiel. Anderson's rink moved into the quarter-finals of the second primary event with a tough, 8-5 decision over club president Charlie Hodgson on this morning's 2 o'clock draw to tke the lead in the aggregate

Chinooks Reach Hoop Final

Alberta Chinooks won the Western Canada senior A men's basketball championship Friday night by defeating Winnipeg Kodiaks 59-56 to take their best-of-five final 3-1.

Winnipeg Kodiaks 59-56 to take their best-of-five final 3.1.

The Chinooks now advance to the Canadian final in Ottawa against Ottawa Fellers.

The Winnipeg club won the second game of the round. They played without replacements from other teams in the league because the men they selected were professional football players, ineligible for the 1959 Pan-American Games which the Canadian champions will enter.

Chinooks, an experienced club, led 32-26 at half time Friday night.

MISSED FOUL SHOTS

With one minute remaining the score was 57-56 for the Albertans. Doug Hill and Dick Bevan of Winnipeg each missed single foul shots.

Dick Herbertson of Winnipeg fouled out with four seconds remaining and Jack Lilja of the Chinooks, victim of the foul, sank both his free throws.

Herbertson was high scorer with 17 points while Bob Bradley of the Alberta team had 16. Bob Swanger of Winnipeg scored 13.

Defence counsel Lloyd Mac kenzie said he had employed Altorjai as a gardener, and that the man was "docile and takes great pride in his work,"

Evidence disclosed he had been arrested "five or six" times for intoxication.

'EXTRAORDINARY DEVICE'

Mr. Mackenzie termed the accused "an extremely eccentric person . . . who frolics around and makes a nuisance of himself when drinking." He had previously been in a mental institution.

Magistrate Ostler termed the weapon "an extraordinary device" and suggested it was probably used for shooting animals. He said the combination of excitability, intoxication and possession of the weapon presented "a highly dangerous situation."

Pronouncement of sentence was adjourned until Monday pending medical findings.

The Wedding Story

A handsome couple are Lieut. Thomas A. Sigurdson, RCN, and Mrs. Sigurdson, as they leave St. Andrew's Chapel, HMCS Naden following their wedding last weekend. The bride is the former Barbara Anne Huggett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Huggett of Toronto and her groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Sigurdson of Winnipeg. Prior to her marriage, Mrs. Sigurdson was a nursing officer in the RCN. Newlyweds are making their home in Victoria.—(Photo by Jus-Rite.)

"Oh how we danced on the night we were wed!" This happy bride and groom are Mr. and Mrs. Norman O. Deen. They were married in Centennial United Church by Rev. Douglas Carr. Attractive bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Richardson of Julia Street, and is the former Miss Joan Alice Richardson. Mr. Deen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Deen of Alix, Alta.—(Photo by Kandid Kamera.)

Radiantly happy as they were pictured after their wedding are Mr. Harry W. Smythe, RCAF, and his wife, the former Miss Elsie Diane Woodward. Married in Garden City United Church, the bride is the third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. Woodward of Tait Street and her groom is the eldest son of Mr. W. O. Smythe, RCAF and Mrs. Smythe of RCAF Station, Langar, Notts, Eng.—(Photo by Ryan Studio.)

Vancouver Island Rock and Alpine Garden Society Annual Show

Plans have been completed for the 1959 show of the Vancouver Island Rock and Alpine Garden Society to be held in the Crystal Garden on Friday and Saturday, April 17 and 18. Classes include rock plants, auriculas, polyanthus, primulas, rhododendrons, dwarf conifers, daphne, iris, narcissus, tulips and ferns. There is a special children's section, 12 years and under and one for the 13 to 16-year-olds, also a special class for any exhibitor who has not won an award at any previous show. Executive members in charge of arrangements include V. W. Ahier, Dr. S. S. Holland, A. Demezey, Mrs. Sybil McCulloch, D. G. F. Barton, K. E. Christiansen, Cmdr. R. S. Martin, J. Erickson, H. S. Hamill, Mrs. H. R. Hanson, E. H. Lohbrunner, Miss. D. Page, Dr. C. A. Watson and Mrs. Christiansen.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Hamill, pictured in their attractive rock garden at their home on the Patricia Bay Highway are actively interested in the rock and apine garden society and will, no doubt, have entries in the coming show. Mr. Hamill is a member of the executive committee of the society.

Mrs. N. Abkazi, pictured above in the garden at her home on Fairfield Road, is an ardent flower lover and, her garden is one of the most outstanding in the city. Rockeries are a feature of the landscap-

These are for that man of yours, whether he's an avid fisherman or one of those who go out in a boat just to relax, for a couple of hours with a line. It's the newest fishing lure, now available here. Sporting magazines have been raving about this bait for months, and local stores have just got them in. Teenager 'Lives' for Organ Music

By JUDY NICHOLSON

There's a success story in the making at Christ Church

Main character is a viva-cious redhead, 16-year-old Miss Catherine Shore, who eats, sleeps, and breathes music and almost lives in the cathedral,

To add an extra-and interesting - note. Catherine is the new assistant organist there. Quite an ambitious project for this teenager, who the cathedral's choir master and organist.

It was while singing in the choir at St. Barnabas' Anglican Church, that Catherine first really found the organ was for her.

"I was given the chance to play a bit at the church organ there, and that was the begin-ning," she explains. So, while her fellow teenagers are dancing and singing to the rock and roll beat of today's modern music, attractive Catherine is submerged in her classical and church music.

"Every spare moment I can find, I'm down at the cathedral practising. I've found there a wealth of satisfaction in the organ, which to my mind is the king of all in-struments. I can get so many varied tones both soft and loud . . . it makes wonderful if I want to make a career erine.

Six Months Abroad

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Leaving Tuesday on a trip that will keep her away for six months is Miss Amy Wills, Victoria. Miss Wills will arrive in Montreal to spend a week with Dr. and Mrs. David Wilson and family. Mrs. Wilson is her neice. She will sa April 22 on board the Homeric for Southampton. May 30, Miss Wills will be joined in London by Miss Alison Chrow and Miss Connie Chrow. The trio will leave June 2 for a five-week tour of the Continent. On their return to England, they will spend three weeks in London and a week in Edinburgh. will spend three weeks in London and a week in Edinburgh where they will attend the annual festival. Miss Wills will then spend several months visiting in England and will return to Victoria in mid-October. She has been entertained prior to her departure. Mrs. Archie Wills, Mrs. K. ARIES (March 21 to April 19)-Much can be acemplished today to bring about more lucrative dealings with others. However, it is necessary that you get busy and make calls, telephone, write. Contact key ople and come to better understanding.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)-Time to think almost exclusively of financial affairs. See your banker, customers, investment broker—all who can help you start ah upswing immediately. Listen to suggestions given and follow them quickly for they are excellent:

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) - Opportunity is yours now to combine your energies with those of good com-rades toward some mutually lucrative and construc-$99.95 getting better understanding while having fun.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21)-A quiet POWER MOWER talk with some influential person will bring the right solution to any current problems that are vexing you. Don't confide in anyone else, however, and steer clear of gossips. P.M. retire early and get needed rest.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—You can reach your goals much laster if you will get out early and gather the added information you need for advancement, it be sure to use more up-to-date methods in your 21" R.C.A. Victor $99.95 operations. Then the results should be wonderful.

21" Custom de Juxe Philes. VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—A clear thinking higher up, while not of the same turn of mind as you, is nonetheless able today to give the information which you sorely need at this time, confidentially . Then you can utilize this to produce the desired results

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)-Contact your clever associate now for those suggestions that will help you greatly. Appreciate his or her dynamism. Don't procrastinate or you lose out. Be very co-operative,

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)-Many inspirational oughts occur to you now concerning how to have greater success in career matters and happiness in social relationships. Fine ideas come from experts, too. Blend the two and expand.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)-Long co versations with associates today produce fine results. To Also confer with very intelligent other persons. Under the stand fully what is said. Listen to their views first before you express own opinions.

AN UMBRIAN

Mystery Madonna Identified

The Art Gallery "mysters Madonna" has been identified and will be on display, accom panied by pictures showing restoration work, for a week starting at 11 a.m. Tuesday.

After four years of unsuecessful investigation by experts in this country and Britain, the work has been positively identified as that of Antonio da Viterbo who belonged to the Umbrian school of painting in the 15th and 16th cen

The man who made the identification was Dr. Maurice Goldblatt, director of the University of Chicago art gallery. In 1955 Colin Graham, gal-ervicurator here, was examin ing the 18x13-inch painting when he noticed considerable retouching. With the permission of the owner, Mrs. F. C. E. Roome, it was sent to Ottawa for examination.

There x-rays disclosed another picture underneath. It was restored in London. Mr. Graham said da Viterbo was "an extremely good minor painter."

It was probably painted over in the early 19th century when

POLIO CASES UP IN U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)-There have been more polio cases in the U.S. so far this year than during the corresponding pe-riod in 1958. The public health service announced Friday that stable J. J. Flaten was charged there had been 207 paralytic cases through the week April 4. In 1958, the paralytic total was 113. There have been 298 cases of all kinds of Gordon G. Recknagel of polio this year, compared with Surrey alleged his good arm and his nose were broken when he was arrested.

'Quack Cures' Cost More Than Research

If money spent on "quack cures" for rheumatoid arthritis went instead toward research, the fight against the crippling attacker would be greatly advanced. Dr. H. S. Robinson, Vancouver, said here Friday. The medical director of the B.C. Division, Canadian Arth-ritis and Rheumatism Society said sufferers from rheuma-toid arthritis often impoverthemselves on useless treatments not medically prescribed. And as the disease runs in eycles, with inflammation of joints increasing and diminishing regularly, persons who take "quack cures" could easily be led to believe that the most "recent" cure has helped them. If each of the estimated

CAPETOWN (Reuters)—A soccer game be-tween a Brazilian team including Negroes and a South African side was cancelled today after complaints of racial discrimination.

Cancellation of the game, a few hours before it was due to be played, followed cabled instructions from President Juscelino Kubitschek of Brazil.

The four Negro members of the team, which is en route to Portuguese East Africa, did not land at Capetown when the other members disembarked from their ocean liner.

The Negroes were told they could not play against white South African teams.

training routines usually become the toughest taskmasters if they eventually turn their talents to coaching.

They can remember times when disregard for training rules let their teams down in crucial situations and they know a flock of ways to avoid hard work and still keep in the coach's good books.

Accordingly, when they pick up the whip, they know where to use it. They are suspicious of all their charges and prone to insist on strict adherence to conditioning chedules. Jealous of indifferent attitudes that can wreck heir coaching labors, they are quick to recognize player symptoms that indicate laziness.

Coaching can be a tougher job for the dedicated athlete. The man wito never needed any prodding to stay in top condition and never stopped trying to improve during his playing days finds it difficult to believe that some players won't work on their own to stay in shape. He is inclined to spend most of his coaching time on instruction in fundamentals and tactics, taking for granted that his charges will be physically ready for an all-out effort. Often it takes a while to discover that while most athletes agree strenous training is a necessary part of success, about half need an occasional touch of the training whip for a

Willie Hamilton has certainly been dedicated to soccer. At 37 he was still a capable performer in the Victoria and District Football League this winter. Staying in condition has never been a problem for Willie and there was a suspicion that as coach of Victoria's entry in the Pacific Coast Soccer League, he might be sparing the whip in

But Willie says it isn't so in a thick Scottish burr that leaves no doubt of his birthplace. He admits to other problems but expects his Evcoes to be in sharp physical condition when they open the new PCSL season against Halecos at Macdonald Park next Saturday.

For one thing, Hamilton has had a couple of earlier trips through the coaching mill and he has sweated under ome of the best trainers in the booting business. He had session as player-manager with Hamilton Academicals in the Scottish League's second division and he piloted Victoria United through a Pacific Coact League campaign a few years back. Right now, he's confident Evcoes will be able to run with any club in the circuit.

His main worry is that some players, moving out of the local loop, will take a while to adjust to the sharper tactics of the coast circuit. "We should do pretty well," says Willie, "The players are eager, but we're starting from scratch and some of our players will have to adjust them-selves to a faster pace.

"Vancouver clubs are usually faster on the ball and more alert. Our boys will have to learn to get to the ball more quickly, get it under control and move it away faster than they do now. We should have had a couple of matches nuver teams before the season started. Now it may take two or three games to become accustomed to a faster pace.

"But don't be surprised if we give them a lot of trouble right from the start," he says,

It would be difficult to find a man with a better soccer background than the mild-mannered Evcoes' coach.

Hamilton became a part of professional soccer at the tender age of 15. However, English League regulations prohibit the signing of players under 17 and he spent two years practicing with Preston North End and working years practicing with Preston North End and working around the club grounds before stepping into the left halfback spot with the First Division club, He spent 11 seasons halfbacking for North End, twice playing in the semifinal of the English Football Association Cup series, before transferring to Queen of the South for a five-year stint with the Scottish First Division squad.

His player-manager season with Hamilton Academicals came next, followed by a season with Greenoch Morton and a term with Airdrie before he pulled up stakes and headed for Victoria in October, 1955.

Hamilton has the knowledge and Evones have the energy and eagerness. It could eventually prove to be a happy combination. But don't forget to keep that whip handy, Willie

Clare's Rink Provides Surprise in City 'Spiel

The field narrowed down today, but the race for aggregate honors remained a toss-up with four rinks still sporting unblemished records in the seventh annual Victoria Curling Club bon-

As rinks headed into today's rounds, defending Grand Challenge and aggregate champion Bill Karjala of Nanaimo loomed as the man to beat once again, but he had to make room under the spotlight for a veteran Victoria curling crew.

The veteran rink is "owned" by popular Clare Anderson and skipped by Dick Thompson. Their steady and canny shotmaking is providing the big surprise of the 'spiel. Anderson's rink moved into the quarter-finals of the second primary event with a tough, decision over club president Charlie Hodgson on this morning's 2 o'clock draw to tke the lead in the aggregate

That gave them a 6-0, won-lost record. Right behind, with 5-0 marks, are Karjala, Ed Wilson of Victoria and Ed Mould's Duncan foursome skipped by youthful Fred Dun-

Cigaret Hike Certain

Any time after hext Monday Victoria smokers can expect to pay an extra three cents per package for cigarets 38 cents in most stores, 36 in others for 20.

That is because tobacco wholesalers in the city will be paying the extra 22 cents excise duty levied in the federal budget on shipments arriving here after next Monday, it was explained by spokesmen for the trade today.

Some leading Victoria tobacco confirmed that the boost will seried in every package.
